STEEL FRAMEWORK of underground culvert being constructed at City Park offers the outlines of an amusement park railroad in a watery setting. The culvert will drain the ditch and deep gully at City Park, which will be filled when the culvert is complete, forming one end of the city's $125,000 storm drain project.

CITY STUDIES SOLID WASTE PROBLEM

Mayor Gene Blake told Cameron city councilmen Tuesday evening that he would be discussing county-wide solid waste disposal with the commissioners court if need be, following complaints about trash and garbage being dumped near and at the old city dump grounds.

The grounds were closed when it was filled and the city started using a new location for a sanitary landfill.

Blake said the city needs a joint project with the county because it is a "joint problem."

In other business, the council approved the use of the rodeo arena at Wilson Ledbetter Park for a FFA rodeo to be held April 27 and 28 and June 8 and 9.

Bids were opened on 500 feet of metal curb and gutter forms and bid was awarded to South Texas Equipment Co., the forms to be paid for out of revenue sharing funds.

Bids were also opened on three junk trucks belonging to the city that are no longer in use. They were sold to John Williams for $360.

More bids opened were for two 12,000 gallon fuel storage tanks to be installed at the city maintenance barn. Bid was awarded to Modern Welding of Houston contingent on the company furnishing fittings on the tanks.

Council discussed designing the maintenance barn area into a service center for city equipment, so better records can be kept on equipment and fuel used.

Street Supt. James Hale recommended that the city purchase 100 stop signs and 25 school zone signs to replace worn ones and add those needed.

City Atty. Ed Magre offered the second and last reading of a dangerous and unsafe buildings ordinance, which will be published in the paper. The ordinance will provide for disposition or repair of the buildings.

Mayor Blake noted that three men are needed to serve on the equalization board, and so far the positions have not been filled.

Council also discussed taking over property for delinquent taxes, and the city attorney was instructed to prepare ten suits.

Mayor Blake appointed councilmen Lawrence Zotz, Lincoln Mondrik and Lester Turner to a committee to study commercial garbage rates, which are not equal at this time.

Approval was given to a resolution ordering a city election on April 3, when three councilmen will be elected.

Fire Chief Monroe Bruedigan asked the council if a new rack for drying fire hoses could be built, and discussion was centered on building a wire rack instead of using wood, which rots quickly under wet hoses.

113 With F.M.L.

The old Supreme Court Room in the Texas Capitol is an impressive place, fairly steeped in history of moment and day and year.

I joined a couple other spokesmen for Texas newspapers in testimony there Tuesday night before Texas House Judiciary Committee.

I have traveled tens of thousands of miles these past half dozen years in behalf of public notice and public right to know, but the setting in the former Texas Supreme Court Room is as impressive as any in my brief experience.

113-113-113

It's kind of nice to have something more to broaden your view when the community you live in twice turns down proposals for better schools in six months.

Cameron and the CISD area have done much in civic development, but when it comes to real support for a program in the schools, they seem to lose what otherwise has been sound judgment on so many other issues.

I don't know about you, but I consider it a vote against Leslie and Martin. And if you don't consider these negative votes a vote against the better educational opportunities for your own children or grandchildren, then I do not understand the majority voting in this CISD district, whether rural or city.

Taxpayers now were educated by taxpayers long since gone. Taxpayers in the future will be educated by the young growing to property owners and citizenship and all the rest.

It was a great thing for the Yoes to give Yoe High School and campus grounds to Cameron, but I am now convinced a majority thinks one school gift in 50 years and one bond issue 18 years ago will keep us abreast of educational needs here.

And that, my friends, is ridiculous.

Gene Blake To Head Chamber Of Commerce

New officers have been elected for the Cameron Chamber of Commerce to assume duties March 1. Six new directors also were named.

Gene Blake, owner of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company and mayor of Cameron, was elected president. Other officers elected are L. W. Stroup Jr., first vice president; and William Kelm, second vice president. Blake succeeds Don Humble as Chamber president.

New directors recently elected by Chamber members and announced during the Tuesday Chamber meeting are Narvie Caperton, John B. Henderson Jr., Henry Siebman, Goodhue Smith, Richard Williams, and Milton Wright. These directors will also assume duties March 1 and will serve terms of three years.

When the new board convenes in March, an additional six members will be appointed as directors to serve a one year term.

New officers and directors will be recognized at the annual banquet scheduled for sometime in April.

Four File For School Board

Four local men have filed for positions on the Cameron school board including three incumbents and one first-time candidate.

Incumbents Bentley Hause, Forrest Sapp, and Charles McDermott have all filed for re-election.

Filing for the first time is John Henderson Jr., local attorney and former county attorney.

Deadline for filing for the April 7 election is March 7. Candidates may file at the superintendent's office at Ben Milam School.

Area Meetings Last Chance For Water Corp.

There will be two area meetings for those who are still interested in being served water by the Bell-Milam-Falls Water Supply Corporation.

The first meeting will be held at the Bartlett Electric Co-Operative meeting room in Bartlett on February 22 at 7 p.m. Another meeting will be held at the Bell-Falls Electric Co-Operative meeting room on February 26 at 7 p.m.

These meetings will be the final meeting for persons to make their application and meter deposits. Deadline for applications has been set for March 15, and after this time no more applications will be accepted on this extension to the water corporation.

Those who have already made application and meter deposit should attend the meeting and bring their receipt or cancelled check of meter deposit.

All interested persons are urged to attend one of the meetings.

Housing Meeting Set For Tonight

Paul Olbrich, chairman of the Planning Commission's housing committee, has called a community-wide meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, February 22 (tonight) at the Cameron Community Center on West 6th Street.

The meeting is open to the public and will deal with housing in the city. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Masons To Hear Scott, Have Family Night

The Masonic Lodge of Cameron will hear George R. (Bob) Scott, grand junior steward of the Grand Lodge of Texas when it meets Thursday evening in the lodge.

It will be family night with the Order of the Eastern Star serving supper starting at 6:30 p.m.

Scott has been active in masonic circles since retiring from the Army after 26 years of service with the rank of Lt. Colonel. He is a past master of J. H. Gurley Lodge No. 337 in Waco; a member of Waco Chapter No. 45, Waco Council No. 33, and Waco Commandery No. 10; Karem Shrine Temple; the Royal Order of Scotland; Red Cross of Constantine; and Royal Order of Jesters.

He is a 33 degree inspector general honorary of the Waco Scottish Rite Bodies, and is also a member of the National Sojourners, Inc., a military masonic order.

During 1972 Scott served as district deputy grand master of the 61st Masonic District. He was appointed grand junior steward during the annual communication of the Grand Lodge of Texas in December, 1972.

Scott is employed with the Texas Employment Commission and lives in Waco with his wife and two children.

WILLIAM RASCHKE

Lions To Host District Governor

Cameron lions will host District Governor William H. Raschke of Austin at meetings in February and March.

Raschke will speak to Noon Lions Monday, February 26 at the Texan Cafe at their noon meeting. He will address the Evening Lions Club at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, March 1 at the Cameron Community Center.

Governor Raschke, an outstanding Lion from the Austin Downtown Lions Club, one of the original 32 founder clubs in Lionism, has 14 years of service in Lionism.

He has served as secretary-treasurer, vice president and president as well as official chairman of many different committees for the Austin club.

On the district level, he has furthered Lionism by being district youth exchange chairman, deputy district governor and deputy district governor at large.

He was elected district governor in 1972 and installed at the International Convention held in Mexico City in 1972.

Raschke has owned and operated an accounting student business service in Austin for the past 27 years.

State Plan Due For School Districts

AUSTIN

A request for legislation which would authorize the State Board of Education to develop an overall state plan for school district organization is being submitted to both the Governor and 63rd Legislature.

Under the proposal, the State Board of Education would submit a plan specifically setting out district realignments and legal requirements for adequate school districts to the 64th Legislature in 1975.

Procedures for involving school officials and local citizens in the organization plan would also be included, according to the proposal sent to Capitol Hill by Ben R. Howell of El Paso, Board chairman.

This new proposal follows two earlier requests concerned with school district organization in Texas.

12 GRADES REQUIRED

The first would declare dormant all school districts except those which are county-wide but do not provide an accredited program in all 12 grades this year. These school districts would be attached to existing districts which do provide accredited 12-grade programs. In most cases, they would be the units now offering high school programs to students from the incomplete districts.

The second proposal would phase out state support for county superintendents and county school boards.

A number of these small, incomplete districts have extraordinarily high valuation per student, the Board's request for legislation points out.

"These tax haven districts contribute substantially to the unequal distribution across the sate of fiscal capability to support sound educational programs," Howell adds.

COUNTY OFFICIALS

Currently, 122 Texas counties have elected county school superintendents, 109 have county judges serving as ex officio superintendents paid from local funds, and 21 have neither an elected nor ex officio superintendent.

There are now 230 county school boards supported by $3.2 million in state funds budgeted for county school administration.

Under the State Board of Education plan, county school administrations would no longer be supported by the state. However, local citizens could finance them with local money.

State fiscal support would be phased out over "a reasonable time" with provision for converting common and rural high school districts to independent school districts.

WOULD BECOME DORMANT

A total of 154 school districts which do not now offer full 12-year accredited programs would become dormant.

The new state plan for school district organization, which would be sent to the 64th Legislature in January, 1975, would take Texas one more step along the road to truly efficient public education, Howell said.

"Demands of modern education have increased and expanded while shifts in population have created a number of problems both in school programs and in district organization," the Board chairman added.

Planners To Meet

The Cameron Planning Commission will hold a called meeting at 4 p.m. Friday, February 23 at the Chamber of Commerce office at 112 East 2nd Street.

Those Who Served....

This country's POW's are either back in the state or on their way home.

They are rejoining their human race after anywhere from three to seven years in North Vietnam.

They are beneficiaries of backpay, exemption from any back income tax. But the price is high.

Health, isolation and social rigidity are difficult to overcome even after the best of receptions which this country and their families are giving them.

They have been pawns in the extended negotiations. And their example, by implication, has been put down by the people who left this country during the time they served theirs.

They are seeing children they never saw before they left; they are returning to abandoned marriages in a few cases; they are in quest of a new life.

They are heroes by the chance they survived capture or being shot down. We owe them a lot, these few hundred, more than those who would not serve at all.

'Well And Good'....

Texas is not the only state with high officials in legal jeopardy.

Federal Judge Otto Kerner, former Illinois governor, is the first active U. S. Appeals Court judge to be indicted and convicted of a criminal charge, in this case accepting a bribe from racetrack interests while governor of Illinois, perjury and false swearing.

He is subject to 83 years in prison and $93,000 in fines. An associate, Theodore J. Issacs, was convicted of conspiracy and several other charges.

Kerner as late as 1968 was author of the Presidential Commission Report on Violence.

Court repercussions in Texas during the Sharpstown issues of 1971 and 1972 never reached the federal level, but the issue was state government.

Considering the convictions in New Jersey, Illinois and Texas during the past two years, high public office may be less appealing to those who seek to "do well while doing good."

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

PRESIDENT SOLICITS SOME COMMON SENSE

A few excerpts from the President's budget message to Congress confirms his wish that Congress exercise restraint in presenting appropriation bills.

TO THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES:

"Rarely is a budget message perceived as a dramatic document. In a real sense, however, the 1974 budget is the clear evidence of the kind of change in direction demanded by the great majority of the American people . . .

"In no sense have Federal civilian programs been starved; their share of the gross national product will increase . . .

"Common sense tells us that a family budget cannot succeed if every member of the family plans his own spending individually--which is how the Congress operates today. We must set an overall ceiling and affix the responsibility for staying within that ceiling . . .

"The surest way to avoid inflation or higher taxes or both is for the Congress to join me in a concerted effort to control Federal spending. I therefore propose that BEFORE THE CONGRESS APPROVES ANY SPENDING BILL, IT ESTABLISH A RIGID CEILING ON SPENDING, limiting total 1974 outlays to the $268.7 billion recommended in this budget. . .

"There is, however, very little room for the creation of new programs requiring additional outlays in 1975 and no room for the postponement of the reductions and terminations proposed in this budget . .

"Our progress must not be measured by the amount of money we put into programs but the accomplishments which result from them . . .

"I will do everything in my power to avoid the need for a tax increase, but I CANNOT DO IT ALONE. The cooperation of the Congress in controlling total spending is absolutely essential . . .

"Common sense tells us that it is more important to save tax dollars than to save bureaucratic reputations. By abandoning programs that have failed, we do not close our eyes to the problems that exist; we shift resources to more productive use . . . Legarthy, habit, pride and politics combine to resist the necessary process of change, but I am confident that the expressed will of the people will not be denied . . ."

RICHARD NIXON

As attempts are made to control Federal spending the wailing of bureaucrats and some congressmen will resound from every TV talk show. On a recent TV morning talk show a Senator even suggested that the President should be impeached for holding up funds that were appropriated by congress in excess of what was originally requested Some congressmen talk Nay but vote YEA.

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOT COMMENT

VA Gives Hints On Vets Mail

The postman rings 92 million times a year at various offices and hospitals of the Veterans Administration, a VA survey discloses. At the Veterans Administration Regional Office, Jack Coker, director, ` said 2,244,048 pieces of mail were received last year.

Thus, when writing to VA, the veteran should include full name and address; claim (C) number, if he has one, or his military serial or Social Security number.

Also, include ZIP codes as these have become an integral part of moving the mails. VA, for example, sorts its mail by ZIP code when the volume warrants it.

Sun's Rays May Be Used To Beat Energy Crisis

By Robert Trautman

WASHINGTON

The sun's rays, harnessed through a series of giant mirrors, may be used in a bid to beat the energy crisis which has cut off power from thousands of homes and factories this winter.

This is one of a series of ways being considered by government agencies and congressional committees to increase energy output.

While increasing oil and gas imports and expanding drilling for natural resources are considered the short-term answers, the sun is being more and more regarded as the answer to America's long - term energy shortage.

But the project would be costly, with the House Science and Astronautics committee estimating about three billion dollars in federal funds would be required over the next 15 years to produce solar power.

A report to the committee from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASE) said the major concepts being considered for harnessing the sun's rays are a solar furnace, heat farm, or satellite.

Under the solar furnance comcept, a system of mirrors on a tower would reflect the sun's rays on to a boiler. The heat generated in the boiler would be converted into electricity by a steam turbine generator.

One problem however, is that while best sites for the towers whoud be in deserts, where there would be an unobstructed view of the sun, the same deserts would produce dust storms to lower the effectivness of the morrors.

The solar farm would involve acres of morrors to focus the sun's rays on long hot water pipes, with the water turning the steam generators.

The third method would be a bank of solar cells in orbiting satelites. The cells would be continously exposed to the sun's radiation and the electricity produced would be converted into microwave energy. This microwave energy would be beamed to earth for a second stage conversion into electricity.

NASA contends that, given adequate research and development funds, solar energy by the year 2020 could economically provide up to 35 percent of the energy required to heat and cool homes and 20 percent of all electrical requirments.

NASA added that there are no technical barriers to wide application of solar energy, no adverse environmental effects, and, if development is successful, the sun could heat buildings in five years, cool buildings in six to 10 years and produce electricity in 10 to 15 years.

But to reach that level, the committee reported, would require federal funding for research on the order of some 100 million dollars a year for the next three years, up to 150 million dollars for subsequent years, for a total of about three billion dollars in 15 years.

Rep. George Miller, chairman of the House Science and Astronautics Committee, assessed it this way: "With the energy crisis worsening, worldwide attention must be focused on solar energy; if not, such issues as Vietnam, crime and unemployment will pale into insignificance."

He said in a statement accompanying the NASA report that the United States is consuming electricity at close to present peak capacity right now, but total energy needs will increase by 400 percent in less than 30 years time.

He said the United States must greatly increase the three or four million dollars a year it now spends on solar energy research.

He acknowledged that solar energy may cost more in the short run, but said there should be no complaints when people are willing to pay five dollars for a bottle of gin and one dollar and 25 cents for a can of deodorant.

US Needs New Energy Sources, Cong. Poage Says

Cong. W. R. Poage said this week that the United States needs to engage in a crash program comparable to, though not as expensive, as our space program to tap two great sources of new energy.

Commenting in his weekly newsletter, Poage said energy from the sun and from geothermal energy are virtually untapped and would solve the nation's present energy crisis.

"The earth receives enough energy each day from the sun to operate all of our machines, heat all of our homes, and drive all of our transportation," he said. "We have been familiar with solar energy throughout history but we have hardly begun to make use of it. We need to carry out an intensive program directed toward the use of the energy of the sun."

The second source of energy is to be found in the earth itself, Poage said. This is the heat generated by the tremendous weight of the earth's solid crust bearing down on the super heated and, in many cases, at least semi-liquid interior.

"There are a few places in the world where this geothermal energy is presently used," he continued. "Examples are found in New Zealand, in Iceland, and in a small degree in the Western United States."

Poage noted that in any volcanic area, heat can be produced by boring wells toward the lava mass.

"Certainly the immediate returns to this country from the development of either solar or geothermal energy would ba many times greater than the tangible benefits from our space exploration, vital as that has been," he concluded.

McCall Scholarship Fund Established

WACO

An Abner V. McCall Scholarship Fund has been established by planners of a recognition day March 30 for the 10th president of Baylor University.

A group of about 30 business, political, denominational and civic leaders serving as the advisory committee for the event met last week on the Waco campus of the Baptist University. The committee will finance the initial student scholarship from the fund.

Plans for the recognition day include convocations on campus during the week, an afternoon reception for out-of-town guests and a banquet at Waco's Civic and Convention Center. About 2,200 persons are expected to attend the March 30 banquet.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editar:

Although science keeps on trying to automate and computerize people, human nature has a way of going on without paying too much attention to it.

For example, in arranging for the return of the Viet Nam prisoners of war (thank goodness they're getting back) the experts decided the men, limited for years to a skimpy diet of rice and thin soup, should return to normal fare very gradually and scientifically.

They should be started out on a bland diet, somebody decided, having no doubt gotten the idea out of a book written by somebody else who got it out of a book, none of whom probably had ever missed a single meal, not to mention gone really hungry for long periods of time.

They had the whole routine figured out down to the last calorie, vitamin, ounces of protein, etc. So much on Monday, so much on Tuesday, etc.

Then what happened? As soon as the returning men hit the ground they demanded steaks and eggs, topped off with strawberry shortcake. They ate that and at the next meal asked for the same. They had a lot of catching up to do.

I'll tell you, there may be some people who'll let a computer tell them what to eat, but most people have found out there's no substitute for their own taste buds. I don't know how many thousands of years ago this was discovered, but it's been a good while. Letting an expert let a computer tell him what to tell you to eat is like labeling the different grasses in a pasture and telling your cows how much of each variety they should select for a balanced diet. They'd just trample the labels down and graze where their taste buds directed and come out fat if the right grasses are there.

I don't care how hard some specialists try, it's almost impossible to abolish nature.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

MHB Has Vann Chair

The William H. Vann Chair of English Literature has been created by the Board of Trustees of Mary Hardin-Baylor College, according to an announcement today by Dr. Bobby E. Parker, college president.

"We anticipate using this position to further the highest standards of scholarship in the field of English literature," Dr. Parker said. "The Chair is our way of prepetuating the academic excellence to which William H. Vann devoted his life, and our way of honoring the memory of a great scholar."

Dr. Vann served MH-B for 44 years, beginning in 1919, as teacher and chairman of the Department of English. He died at 83.

Easter Seal Appeal Opens On March 1

The 1973 Easter Seal Appeal will open to Milam County on Thursday, March 1, according to E. J. Manning, who serves as Easter Seal Representative for the county.

Manning said that Easter Seal Appeal letters would begin arriving at homes in the county about March 1.

As Easter Seal Representative, Manning is the person to contact to request services from the Easter Seal Scoiety for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas. These services include physical and occupational therapy, speech and hearing programs and special information services to help solve the many problems faced by the families of handicapped children and adults.

TP&L Plans Record Budget

Texas Power & Light Company will spend $171,433,000 for the construction of new facilities in 1973, J. F. Skelton, TP&L president, announced.

The construction budget is the largest in the Company's 61-year history, and expenditures will allow TP&L to keep pace with the growing electrical demands of customers in its 51 - county service area.

A major portion of the expense is involved in the construction of seven major generating units. When completed over the next several years, the new units will be capable of producing some 5.7 million kilowatts of electric power

One new unit is located on Lake Granbury in Hood County; two units near Tatum in Rusk County, and two units near Mount Pleasant in Titus County. The Rusk County and Titus County units will be owned jointly by TP&L, Dallas Power & Light Company and Texas Electric Service Company. The three companies also have two 1,150,000 - kolowatt nuclear units in early planning stages. The units will be located near Glen Rose.

ADDING TANKS

Another significant expenditure in 1973 will be the installation of additional fuel oil tanks at existing TP&L Power plants. Normally, the oil tanks at existing TP&L power plants. Normally, the Company fuels all but one of its power plants with natural gas. However, in recent weeks, TP&L's two major gas suppliers have greatly curtailed gas deliveries to the Company.

The new fuel oil tanks, which will store a total of 18 million gallons of oil, are being installed because of the present gas curtailments and expected future difficulties in obtaining an adequate supply of natural gas, Skelton explained.

In addition to its power plant construction, the Company will build or improve transmission lines, substations and distribution lines and service centers in various parts of its service area.

Part of the Company's current construction budget includes expenditures for ecological improvements at numerous TP&L power plants.

New Cotton Technology Frees Marginal Land

Vast acreages of marginal farmland once devoted to cotton production are being freed by modern agricultural technology for other uses which contribute to a better environment, says Dr. John E. Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Hutchison, co-chairman of a statewide committee devoted to increasing both cotton volume and quality, the Texas Cotton Task Force, said the increased yield of a half bale an acre since 1940 is releasing nearly 10 million acres in the U.S. formerly devoted to growing cotton to other uses for which it is better suited.

In the period 1968-70 U.S. cotton farmers produced an average of 10,300,000 bales per year on 10,700,000 acres of land, an average of nearly a bale an acre (.96 of a bale to be precise).

Thirty years ago they were producing only a half bale to the acre. Which means, Hutchison pointed out, that to produce the cotton needed today at 1938-40 yields would have required nearly twice as much land -- 20,600,000 acres.

"In other words," he explained, "since World War II, new cotton production technology has made a gift of 9,900,000 acres of marginal cottonland to the United States for diversion to pastures, forests or recreational uses to which it is better suited.

"And this is only one crop," he quickly noted. "This kind of soaring yield increase is going on across nearly the whole spectrum of farm commodities, not just cotton."

Some have been little short of phenomenal.

In 40 years grain corn production has soared from 28.4 bushels per acre to 78; wheat has climbed from 14.2 bushels in 1940 to 30.1 today; potatoes from 75.7 hundredweight an acre to 221; tobacco from 947 pounds to 2,008 pounds an acre; and grain sorghum from 13 bushels to almost 53, a 307 per cent rise.

The annual saving in acreage from all crops in 1968-70 through advanced agriculture technology as compared to 1938-40 was about 290,000,000 acres, an area equivalent to the total cropland in the U.S. in 1970.

"Thus, for each acre tilled today another acre is available for optional uses because of advances in crop production technology," Hutchison commented.

Director Hutchison said the yield revolution could be largely attributed to five production factors: farm mechanization, genetically improved varieties and hybrids, improved management practices, better plant nutrition and control of damaging pests.

Other influences, he noted, include storage, transportation facilities, purchasing power, price stabilization policies and incentive.

"Nothing discourages a grower from risking the capital required for high yield more than the specter of low prices as a result of market gluts at harvest time," he pointed out.

Petitions Going To White House

Texas Farmers Union President, Jay Naman of Waco, has announced that petitions bearing the signatures of thousands of Texas farmers, ranchers, and rural community leaders are being mailed to the White House and key members of Congress.

The petitions request the cooperation of the Congress and the Administration to reinstate the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP), the two per cent REA loan funds, the emergency loan program of the Farmers Home Administration, and other rural program cuts.

Those receiving the petitions are Senators Lloyd Bentson and John Tower of Texas, Seantor Herman Talmadge of Georgia, Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman, Congressman W. R. "Bob" Poage, Chariman of the House Agriculture Committee, other key congressmen; and the White House.

ON GOVERNOR'S STAFF

Reagan Brown, who has served as sociologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service for the past 17 years, has been named as a special assistant by Gov. Dolph Briscoe. Brown served as coordinator of the Texas Community Improvement Program.

25 YEAR SERVICE AWARD was presented to Hobert F. Rackley for his services to the Milam County Maintenance Department of the Texas Highway Department. He has been with the department since December 2, 1947. District engineer Joe G. Hanover, left, presented the award to Rackley at a meeting in Bryan.

Winter Forage Needs Nitrogen

By Bill McCutchen

What should I do about topdressing my winter forage, is a common question these days.

Wheat, oats and other forages being grazed must have adequate nitrogen for satisfactory production and quality. One or more applications of nitrogen may be needed for maximum forage production during the remainder of the winter and spring. Rates per application will vary from 50 to 100 lbs of N/acre depending on stocking rates, production potential and other factors. Type of forage, stand, condition of plants, moisture and grazing management will affect the most profitable rate.

One thing is certain -- high production cannot be maintained without adequate nitrogen fertilization.

TEST FORAGE

Forage testing is essential for livestock producers to know the nutritional value of their pastures and hay.

Adequate fertilization and utilization before the forage matures are the two most significant factors affecting forage quality.

Young, leafy forages are higher quality than old, stormy and mature forages. Quality declines rapidly when forages begin to mature and may be reduced by 50 percent in 10 to 14 days of plant growth.

For example, sorghum-sudan hybrids may be 15 percent crude protein or higher when the plants are young and before seedheads begin to form. Within 10 to 14 days after seedheads begin to form, the pasture's crude protein content may be as low as 8 to 10 percent. Coastal Bermudagrass may have a protein content of 15 percent when plants are leafy and tender. Within two weeks, this may decline 8 to 10 percent.

A summary of forage samples analyzed at the Texas A&M Forage Testing Laboratory reveals a wide range in all classes of forages. Some of the samples were exceptionally high quality while other samples were much less desirable.

Forage testing laboratories can determine the nutrient value of hay and pasture plants for a nominal fee. The small charge for determining protein and other factors is a good investment for knowing the nutritional value which livestock receive.

Instructions for submitting samples to forage testing laboratories are available from the county Extension office.

Forage Meeting At Gause

By John E. Snell

A pasture and forage meeting will be held on Wednesday, February 28 at 7 p.m. at the Gause Elementary School.

Dr. John Chapin, area agronomist from Stephenville and Dr. Rupert Palmer, Extension agronomist, weed control will conduct the meeting.

Dr. Chapin will discuss plant nutrient needs, fertilizer rates, time and method of application and grasses adapted to area.

Dr. Palmer will discuss weed control problems, chemical and mechanical weed control, and herbicide regulations or laws.

This meeting should be of interest to all beef cattle producers since adequate forage production is very important to produce beef economically. All interested producers are invited to attend.

4-H Notes

By Rodney B. Kruse

Several Milam County 4-H'ers will attend the Houston Livestock Show. Blane Laywell will show his steer, David Ehler his Brown Swiss heifer; Gery Hollas his Brown Swiss Cow; Daniel Richardson his Guernsey heifer; Brian Cobb his Holstein and Brown Swiss heifers; Linda Lemon her Guernsey heifer and from Davilla, Gary Gadison will show his Guernsey heifer.

From Thorndale Wynona Scroggins will show her Brangus heifer and steer; John Caffey his Brangus heifer; and Darlene Hengst her Brangus heifer.

At the San Antonio Livestock last week Daniel Richardson's Guernsey heifer won the Junior Champion Guernsey Female. Gery Hollas placed third with his Brown Swiss cow and Brian Cobb placed sixth with his Brown Swiss heifer.

A New High . . . Auction Receipts Decline . . . Sheep and Lamb Feeding About Steady . . . Still Only Three . . .

For several years, the human population and the cattle and calf population in Texas were at about equal levels. But as of January 1, that has all changed.

The inventory of all cattle and calves in Texas is now 15,350,000 head, while the human population is around 12,000,000.

The 15,350,000 cattle and calves represents a 14 per cent increase over a year ago levels.

And as numbers went up, so did the value. The inventory value of all cattle and calves on Texas Farms and ranches is $3.5 billion; this is 42 per cent higher than a year ago.

Beef cow numbers at 5,320,000 head are up 16 per cent; milk cows at 360,000 are up one per cent; and beef replacement heifers at 1,043,000 are up 21 per cent.

The calf crop in Texas totaled 5,444,000; this is a three per cent increase.

Nationwide, the number of cattle and calves is up four per cent from the previous record. The nation has 121,990,000 cattle and calves. "Texas continues to be the leading state in the nation in totals of cattle and calves," Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said.

AUCTION receipts for cattle, calves, hogs, sheep and goats in Texas are below year-ago levels, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes.

During this past year, 181 livestock auctions inspected by the Texas Animal Health Commission reports a six per cent drop in calf and cattle receipts.

Sheep receipts were down 11 per cent; goat receipts were 26 per cent below the previous year. Hogs receipts were down 19 per cent.

DRYLOT sheep feeders with a lot capacity of 2,000 head or more had 90,000 sheep and lambs on feed for slaughter as of February 1. This is the same as the number on feed a month earlier but three per cent below the number on feed a year ago.

Current intentions to market are: 45,000 in February; 35,000 in March; and 10,000 in April.

ONLY three commodities are above effective parity in Texas. They are oats, calves and sheep.

All feed grains except grain sorghum showed advances during the recent month. Wheat averaged $2.40 per bushel, up nine cents; corn averaged $1.78 bushel, up seven cents; oats averaged $1.05 per bushel, up four cents; and grain sorghum averaged $2.75, down four cents.

Hogs averaged $30.40 per hundredweight, beef cattle averaged $37.20; calves averaged $52.10, sheep averaged $13.50, and lambs averaging $34.80.

Eggs were up two cents from the previous month averaged 52 cents per dozen.

Milk averaged $7.75 per hundred pounds, down a nickel from the previous month.

Cotton declined during the past month. It now averaged 20 cents per pound, which is down 1.2 cents per pound.

Farm Debts Are Growing

There is "compelling evidence" that Texas farmers' debt situations are getting heavier every year, according to three economists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Farmers appear to be "carrying over" significant amounts of loans and find themselves borrowing large amounts simply to repay previous debts, Lindon J. Robinson, Dr. Peter J. Barry Dr. John A. Hopkin said. Indicating the extent of the situation, they said, is the fact that in seven of the years from 1962 to 1972, farmers debt repayments exceeded gross farm income.

Projections to 1980 indicate more of the same. Even with a conservative two per cent inflation rate--it was three per cent between 1962 and 1970--the ratio of non-real estate debt repayments to the total cash farm income is projucted to increase from .93 in 1970 to a high 1.42. A ratio of one means that the repayments and income are evenly marched, below one there is more cash than repayments and above one the payments exceed the income.

Little, if any, real growth has occurred in cash farm receipts from farm marketing. Cash receipts per farm seem to be on the increase because farms have been growing larger and becoming fewer in number. The number of farms in Texas has decreased from 224,000 with an average size of 638 acres in 1962, to 187,000 farms with a 775-acre average in 1970. Because of this, cash receipts per farm have gone up while receipts per acre have actually remained nearly constant.

The three economists, all with the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology at Texas A&M University, emphasized that the figures should be interpreted carefully as the calculations involved were based on limited data.

Robinson is a research assistant with the department, Dr. Barry, an assistant professor, and Dr. Hopkin, a Stiles professor.

Veterans Benefits Exempt From Tax

The Veterans Adminsitration today offered helpful tips to recipients of veterans benefits preparing to file federal income tax returns.

Jack Coker, Waco VA Regional Office Director, noted that veterans benefits, in general, are exempt from taxation, and need not be reported as income.

An exception is interest on government life insurance dividends left on deposit or credit with VA. Such interest is considered income, Coker explained, and therefore should be reported as income.

Dividends and proceeds from G. I. insurance policies are not subject of federal income taxes, but proceeds must be included for federal estate tax purposes.

Officials said other major tax exempt benefits include compensation and pension, G. I. bill and other educational assistance, subsistence payments to vocational rehabilitation trainees, and grants to severely disabled veterans eligible for homes and cars.

Two Reasons Why You Should Plant FUNK'S G-522 Grain Sorghum

1. PERFORMANCE

HUNDREDS OF FARMERS THROUGHOUT TEXAS HAVE REPORTED OUTSTANDING RESULTS FROM PLANTING FUNK'S G-522: Here are a few examples:

TRAVIS COUNTY – Clarence Bohls..."I like Funk's G-522's big, wide leaves because they shade the ground, conserve moisture and keep weeds down. It yielded 4,850 p.p.a., which was very good compared to competitive hybrids."

COLLIN COUNTY–Larry Scott.... "I have planted Funk's G-522 for four years. For the past three years, most all of my grain sorghum acreage has been G-522. I've been well pleased with its performance each year."

BURLESON COUNTY – Edmund Sebesta,Jr..."I plant a variety test on my farm and for the last four years, G-522 has been the top yielder."

HILL COUNTY TEST – Kenneth Stufflebeme Farm, Itasca...Funk's G-522 yielded 4,713 p.p.a. and was Number One over 19 other hybrids.

TRAVIS COUNTY – Roland Wieland..."This is our second year with G-522. We yielded 5,178 p.p.a. on 56 acres. On approximately 500 acres, we averaged over 4,000 p.p.a. It will be Funk's G-522 again next year."

BRAZOS COUNTY – Phil Scamardo..."Funk's G-522 did an excellent job for me. It yielded 5,747 p.p.a. The standability was excellent. I will plant Funk's G-522 next year."

FANNIN COUNTY AGENT TEST PLOT–Funk's G-522 yielded 6,276 p.p.a., competing against 40 other hybrids.

BELL COUNTY TEST PLOT Funk's G-522 outyielded all other hybrids with a yield of 5,685 lbs. per acre.

Six Flags Preparing Five Acre Addition

Details of the largest expansion program in several years at Six Flags Over Texas were revealed today by the theme park's general manager.

Robert W. Freeman said the one and a half million dollar project will add approximately five acres to the Park's entertainment area.

To be known as Good Time Sqaure, the new section will include two major rides, a large games area, a miniature circus and a number of other attractions.

Being built in the area adjacent to Six Flags' Boomtown section, Good Time Square will reflect the architectural style of a Texas town at the turn of the century.

The largest of the new rides is The Infernal Electrical Bumping Machines. Freeman said, "In designing this ride we have taken the traditionally popular 'bumper cars' and used them on a much larger scale than most people are accustomed to seeing." He said the ride will use fifty cars, or "about double the number usually found on such rides."

The second major ride will be called Crazy Legs. It carries 72 people at a time in seats which spin at the tips of six, long, arching arms. The arms rise and fall as the entire ride turns in a huge circle.

The games area, to be known as Doc Snooker's Magnificent Main Street Exposition, features sixteen games in a semi-enclosed, air conditioned area.

Another highlight of the new section is Dragon Bros. Circus, a miniature circus built by the late P. K. Schmitter of Irving. Schmitter, a technical illustrator who passed away in July, 1972, spent more than 10,000 hours building the circus as a hobby.

When the entire layout is in place it will fill a large building in Good Time Square. It includes some 4,000 tiny figures of people and approximately 2,000 miniature animals.

"We are still taking an inventory of the individual pieces making up the circus," Freeman said. "It is so extensive that it has never been set up completely in one place."

Located near the entrance to the section will be a new depot to serve guests who ride Six Flags' narrow guage railroad. Near the center of the Square will be a new restaurant which will feature several additions to the Park's menu.

A bandstand featuring live music will complete the new section. It will be "home base" for a strolling brass band which will entertain throughout the Park.

COTTON PAGEANT

The 39th annual Cotton Pageant and Ball will be held at Texas A&M University Apr. 21. It is being sponsored by the Student Agronomy Society. King Cotton and eight members of his court will be announced soon. During the pageant, a queen and a court of eight princesses will be selected from young ladies representing colleges, universities, civic clubs and other organizations throughout the state.

Tea Honors Bride-Elect Gail Jeter

Yellow and white daisy mums decorated reception rooms at the Frank Luecke home Saturday for a tea honoring Miss Gail Jeter, bride elect of Mr. John Glass. Co-hostesses for the tea were Mrs. James Kahler and Mrs. Frank Luecke.

Greeting guests at the door were Miss Leslie Luecke and Miss Ann Kahler. Mrs. Jimmy Lester assisted at the guest registry table.

Forming an informal receiving line in the living room were the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Donald Jeter and Mrs. Donald Glass, mother of the prospective groom. Each wore a corsage of double white daisies and members of the houseparty wore single white daisy corsages.

A large arrangement of white daisies and carnations in a crystal and gold epergne centered the serving table which was covered with a white cut-work cloth. Flanking the centerpiece were white tapers in hurricane candle holders. Punch, coffee, decorated mints and petits fours were served. Table appointments were of silver.

Assisting at the serving table were Mrs. Johnny Mann and Miss Jinny Jeter, sisters of the bride-elect, Mrs. Jack Glass, Miss Georgeann Wilkerson and Mrs. Johnny Reed of Waco.

Miss Jeter and Mr. Glass will be married March 31 at the home of the bridegroom.

A&M Club Elects New Officers

The Milam County A&M Mothers Club met at the home of Mrs. J. J. Heitman Tuesday evening, Feb. 13. Mrs. Heitman, president, conducted the business session, which included election of new officers.

Mrs. Leo Fuchs was elected president, Mrs. J. J. Heitman vice president, Mrs. E. A. Lehnert secretary, and Mrs. W. W. Blahorn treasurer.

During the program Mrs. Niley Smith Sr. spoke on students and ex - students from A&M University. She also read an article from "The Battalion," the A&M paper.

During the social hour the hostess served a sandwich plate and hot tea. The next meeting will be held in April.

Art Service League Luncheon Welcomes Spring Fashions

The Arts and Service League luncheon Tuesday at Methodist Fellowship Hall was like a breath of spring with gingham table cloths, luncheon baskets lined with pastel tissue paper, pots of flowers and a fast paced parade of "country fresh fashions."

Casual wear clothes from Bernieces took the spotlight with bright colors and bold prints much in evidence. Drawing most approval from the audience of more than 200 were the long and short island influence summer island influence summer dresses.

After a brief welcome from Arts and Service League President Mrs. Bill Dase, Jackie Allen of Dallas, taking her second turn as moderator - coordinator for an Arts and Service League show, started models down the long runway.

And all agreed the models were exceptional. League member models were Mrs. Jimmy Woodum, Mrs. Walter Pyle, Jr., Mrs. Griffin Barrett, Mrs. Larry Coker and Mrs. Paul Young. Special models who stepped in to aid the Arts and Service League benefit were Mrs. Bassel Wilson, Mrs. Bob Foster, Mrs. Douglas Crook, Miss Gail Jeter and Miss Becky Marek.

Almost stealing the show were decorations created by Mrs. William Kelm and her committee. A garden setting of fern and flowing fountain on the stage with gingham bows on tree branches coordinated with gingham table cloths and flower centerpieces.

Mrs. James Camp was general chairman for the show with Mrs. Bernay Dusek, chairman of food and Mrs. Don Humble, ticket chairman.

Proceeds will benefit the Cameron Child Care Center and will add improvements at the Yoe High tennis courts.

PALE YELLOWS, green and white are blended in this summer formal modeled at the Arts and Service League Fashion Show by Mrs. Jimmy Woodum.

ISLAND INFLUENCE long cotton dress for summer entertaining is modeled by Mrs. Larry Coker.

Tennis Club Plans Spring Projects

The Ladies Town and Country Tennis Association discussed tennis court improvements and made plans for a bake sale at their monthly business meeting at the Yoe High tennis courts Friday.

Mrs. Walter Pyle, Mrs. Neil Barr and Mrs. Ed Magre were appointed to contact Cameron School Superintendent Dr. R. Dodson and school trustees about improvements at the tennis courts which the club would help finance.

A bake sale was set for Friday, March 9 at 3:30 p.m. in front of the First National Bank building. Proceeds are to be used for tennis court improvements.

Round-Robin play will begin March 2 for placement on the pyramid. It was announced that only members who have paid their dues can participate. Dues can be paid to Mrs. Joe Mondrik anytime before March 2 to be eligible for the Round Robin.

Members who cannot attend weekly sessions on Friday morning are invited to meet at the courts on Saturday morning at 9 a.m. Mrs. Joe Monrik will be in charge of the Saturday sessions and any interested ladies may contact her about details.

The next business meeting will be 7:30 p.m. March 26 at the Lone Star warehouse.

Valentine Luncheon At Rogers

ROGERS

Mrs. B. F. Harbour entertained a group of friends in her home in Rogers February 14 with a Valentine luncheon.

The house decorations carried out the Valentine motif with red flowers, candles, and valentines. Tables were laid with red and white cloths and napkins, flowers, and candy hearts.

Mrs. L. P. Moore was chosen Sweetheart of the Day, and received a box of chocolates.

A salad plate was served to the following: Mesdames Doody Ward, L.P. Moore, H. H. Wright, Doyle Ray, Millard Cannon, J. D. Knight, Walter McCrystal, V. C. Russell, and Owen Staner.

Dr. Hoffman To Speak At Lutheran Hour Rally

Dr. Oswald Hoffmann will deliver the address at The Lutheran Hour Rally to be held in Waco on Sunday, February 25, at the Waco Convention Center.

Dr. Hoffmann has served as speaker on The Lutheran Hour for 17 years. Appointed in 1955, he also served as director of public relations for The Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod until 1963, when he resigned the Synod post to devote full time to the Lutheran Hour. He received his bachelor of divinity degree from Concordia Seminary in St. Louis in 1936 and was awarded an honorary doctor of divinity degree from Concordia and an honorary doctor of laws degree from Valparaiso University in 1952.

The rally also will feature choral music by a mass choir of 150 voices from area churches, directed by Pastor T. Griesse, a bell choir from First Lutheran Church of Temple, as well as singing by the audience.

"Like The Lutheran Hour, this rally is dedicated to assisting our community in Bringing Christ to the Nations," Buck Pick, general chairman of the event, said. "We extend a cordial invitation to everyone in the area to hear Dr. Hoffmann's message, based on God's offer of salvation through His Son, Jesus Christ."

There is no admission charge to the rally.

The Lutheran Hour, which is sponsored by the International Lutheran Laymen's League, is ranked as the world's largest non-government radio operation. An estimated audience of 40,000,000 each week hears the broadcast in many languages in more than 125 lands. More than 1,700 stations broadcast the program.

IRS Lists Dependent Exemptions

Some of the most common taxpayer errors are caused by not understanding when exemptions can be claimed on Federal income tax returns, according to A. P. Andrews, Administrative Officer of Internal Revenue for Temple , Texas.

The law allows a maximum of three $750 exemptions for any one taxpayer: one regular personal exemption, one exemption for being 65 or over, and one for blindness. These three exemptions are also allowed to the taxpayer's wife. In addition, a taxpayer may claim exemptions for persons qualifying as his dependents.

Generally, to claim an exemption for a depandent, (1) the taxpayer must furnish over half of his dependent's total support, (2) the dependent must not have a gross income of $750 or more, (3) he must be a close relation or member of the household, (4) he has to be a citizen or resident of the United States or a resident of Canada, Mexico, Panama, or the Canal Zone, and (5) he may not file a joint return.

All requirements must be met before a dependent qualifies as an exemption. And it pays to keep good records on amounts spent for the dependent's support.

More details on personal exemptions and depandents are contained in Publication No. 501, "Your Exemptions and Exemptions for Dependents", which is available free from any IRS office.

DPS Holds Civil Defense Conference

A child's faith is beautiful in its simplicity and in the little things it encompasses. Like, for instance, the nightly ritual that comes at the end of prayer. "God bless Mommy and Daddy and Cousin Peter and Kitty Kat and my blue teddy bear."

To a child, there is no reason why God should not bless also a crumpled and slightly soiled teddy bear, and a pet kitty. For God is goodness and love and kindness and tolerance . . . not perhaps in those words, but in the feeling this child has as she says her prayers.

Prayer, to the child who has been taught to pray, is a natural thing. It should be as much a part of everyday life as eating and sleeping and playing. To pray for what is good . . . to give thanks for what one has is an all-important step in that all-important right direction on the road of life.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS
TO: C. H. Chapman, Trustee, Defendant, Greeting:
YOU (AND EACH OF YOU) ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to appear before the District Court of Milam County at the Courthouse thereof, in Cameron, Texas, by filing a written answer at or before 10 o'clock A.M. of the first Monday next after the expiration of forty-two days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being the 26 day of March A.D. 1973, to Plaintiff's Petition filed in said court, on the 6th day of June A.D. 1970, in this cause, numbered 16223 on the docket of said court and styled Estate of Hilton P. Culpepper et al, Plaintiffs, vs. C. H. Chapman, Trustee et al, Defendants.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to-wit: suit for the cancellation of a certain oil, gas and mineral lease and the assignments thereof and for the removal of the cloud from Plaintiffs' title existing by virtue of said lease and assignments and for damages.

If this citation is not served within ninety days after the day of its issuance, it shall be returned unserved.

The officer executing this writ shall promptly serve the same according to requirements of law, and the mandates hereof, and make due return as the law directs.
